HIGHLIGHTS & DESCRIPTION

Autumn Hunt for Moose in Alaska

Overview

Alaskan moose, on average, produce trophies of between 60-65 inches. Even 70 inches is not unusual. Big palmated antlers with many points is normally what hunters are looking for. In September, the moose are in rut and are very active. The most effective methods of finding moose are scanning the district with binoculars and calling them up. From the main camp hunters fly out into the allies, where they stay in traditional Alaskan tented camps which offer the most modern equipment. From here you will hunt in the shadow of volcanoes, spectacular mountains and along great rivers. During the autumn the rivers are teeming with salmon.

The incredible beauty and richness of this hunting district leaves a lifelong impression on all hunters who are lucky enough to hunt here.

The hunt takes place on districts in the Alaskan peninsula, which includes the Alaska Peninsula Wildlife Refuge, and the Aniakchak National Preserve. These districts are part of the Aleutian mountain range, which is bordered by the Pacific Ocean and the northern Gulf of Alaska to the east and the Bering Sea to the west.

HIGHLIGHTS

- There are huge mooses in this area
- Stay in authentic hunting camp
- Incredibly beautiful nature that you will remember forever

ACCOMMODATION Mechik

After your arrival in Anchorage you will spend the night in a hotel. On day 2 you will take a domestic flight to King Salmon in the morning, before carrying on to the hunting district. This will take about an hour and a half and will take you to the main camp at Mechik. The hunting camp is far out in the wilderness, so don't count on your telephone, wifi etc. functioning. In camp you will find a timber cabin, which functions as kitchen and dining rooms, as well as large tents with camp-beds, which is where you will sleep. A bathroom and toilets are available in camp, but they are very simple in character. No will not any spend more time than necessary in the base camp. From here you will move on to small tented camps out in the valleys, where you will spend most of your time on this tour. You will sleep in and hunt from these small camps with your guide.

Out in the valley you will both help each other with all the necessary chore. Your guide will prepare your meals. Once you have finished your hunt you will return to the main camp for a well deserved shower, before enjoying a rest day before you return journey home. There is no bed linen in camp, so bring along a good sleeping bag and insulation mat. The guide and camp personnel prepare all meals, breakfast and dinner are eaten in camp, while on some days you will bring a packed lunch with you when hunting to help save time. When your bear or moose has been shot, you guide will help with skinning and the preparation of the pelt, as well as cleaning the cranium, which are then sent on to a taxidermist. The taxidermist can prepare your bear trophy, but if you prefer you can send the bear back to your local taxidermist at home. Diana works together with a very skilled taxidermist here, who we can certainly recommend. Your bear trophy will be a reminder of your hunt that will last a lifetime. During your week hunting you will really be out in the wilderness. There are no bars, shops or restaurants, these can wait until after your hunt when you return to King Salmon, or even better, if you spend an extra day in Anchorage on your tour home.

About us

Limpopo & Diana Hunting Tours

Limpopo & Diana Hunting Tours Limpopo Travel and Diana Hunting Tours – which today are one and the same company - are built on more than four decades of experience in the hunting travel industry. Diana Hunting tours was founded in Svendborg back in 1974 by the internationally known figure in the hunting tour industry, Jan Krössteig, who today remains shareholder and chairman of the concern.

Over the years the company has grown into the world's largest hunting travel office, with hunting partners in more than 40 counties and customers from around the world. This has only been possible because of the strength of our customers faith in our company, our partners and the service we provide. We take great pride in the fact that a significant number of our customers are "regulars" you not only travel with us frequently, but also bring with then new customers into our business.

The hunting travel market has never been as chaotic as it is at present. There have always been a mass of smalland medium sized agencies trading on the market, but in recent years the rise of the internet has really opened up the market for direct booking and packages sold by "agents" of more or less transparent character and by agencies based abroad.

A large number of hunters have had their fingers burnt booking "cheap" packages, which rarely proceed as promised, Generally it is only when things go wrong that the unfortunate hunter who bought the tour first realises what the difference between a good Danish travel agency - with all the security that entails -and a questionable foreign seller, really is.

What we offer our customers is a rather unique level of security. Our experienced staff really know our destinations and can provide highly qualified advice tailored to the customer's individual requirements. If you book your hunting tour through us you also have a guarantee against the unlikely event of bankruptcy through the Danish Travel Guarantee Fund. Our long standing membership of the Danish Travel Agency Association is also a guarantee for professional service throughout all the proceedings that a hunting tour entails - also in the event of something not going quite as planned. As one of our customers you can expect around the clock support, via our emergency hotline, in the event of anything at all going wrong.
