

WYOMING, USA PRONGHORN

We are very happy to offer a new, exciting destination for 2018 in the State of Wyoming, in the USA. Here we can offer hunting for Pronghorn Antelope on a large privately owned ranch, where the rate of success is an impressive 100%, with fine trophies of min. 13 inches.

Book Your Hunt In Good Time:

This hunting district can only offer a limited number of spaces during each hunting season, to ensure the continued high quality of the trophies, and to guarantee licenses for visiting hunters, so it is very important that you book early. 31st May is the deadline for entering the license lottery, the result of which is announced on the 20th June. To date, all customers have received their licence.

The population of pronghorn is very strong, and the hunt is primarily for good, representative trophies. 4x4 vehicles are used to get around the hunting district, from them you scan the open expanses with binoculars. The greatest challenge offered by this hunt, is to stalk within shooting range of these wary and very alert antelopes, so you can take a safe shot in the open landscape.

The Pronghorn Antelope thrives best in an open prairie landscape, so shots often have to be taken from long range.

Visiting hunters fly to the town of Billings in the state of Montana, where you will meet our outfitter, and be driven to the town of Ranchester in northern Wyoming (circa. a 1 hour drive).

Accommodation is in a fine lodge, from where you will be driven out to the hunting district every day. The guides will take care of all transport during the hunt, which is included in the price.
